++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly dry with sunny spells, but rather cold.

Today:
A largely dry day with sunny spells and light winds, but the odd light shower is possible across Kent. It will also be rather cold, with patches of frost, fog and low cloud in the morning. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
A largely dry evening with occasional clear spells. Becoming increasingly cloudy and windy overnight with a band of rain spreading into the west later, possibly falling as snow on hills. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Saturday:
Cloudy and windy with a band of rain moving eastwards. This may produce some temporary snow across higher ground, but is likely to turn increasingly to rain before clearing later. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunday and Monday will be largely dry with bright or sunny spells. Cold overnight however, with widespread frost. Cloudy and very windy on Tuesday with outbreaks of rain.
